

THE FINE ART TEXTILES AWARD

SUBMISSION AND SELECTION CRITERIA

The Fine Art Textiles Award (FATA) is an international juried exhibition open to all amateur and practising artists using textiles as their medium.

Immediate Live (Upper Street Events) aim to present work that meets the following criteria and is of a standard that:

- Would be considered as fine art and worthy of premium gallery space
- Transcends its craft or making process, standing alone as visual art
- Is clearly rooted in and reflecting of the inspiration, source, concept or idea of the artist, with fully resolved composition
- Is rooted within the medium of textiles, meaning that cloth and thread are used as the pivotal materials/media

Both 2D and 3D works are welcome, with the exception of garments unless said garments present as fine art. All disciplines, processes and media are therefore welcome, as long as the core materials are clearly rooted in textiles. The following is not an exhaustive list, but in terms of process this might include

- hand and/or machine stitch
- weaving
- collage/piecing
- wrapping or binding
- thread 'drawing'
- surface design
- knitting and crochet

In terms of media, other elements can be incorporated such as dyes, discharge media, paint, paper, resin, wax and so forth.

THE JURY & SELECTION PROCESS

Applicants will need to take the above criteria into account as it provides the key guidelines for the selection process, with those bulleted of key importance.

The jury will comprise of established artists working with textiles; arts curators, academics or critics / historians and a representative of Immediate Live (Upper Street Events). Selection will be made from digital images and the jury will be asked to review all applications before getting together via video link to build a shortlist. Once shortlisted applicants have been informed, they may be asked to submit additional images or information about their piece.

In order to keep standards high, the organisers and jury reserve the right to decline short-listed works on viewing.

If sending from outside the UK, please read our guidance about sending work. Please be aware that if any charges are made for customs, you the maker will need to make payment in full. Any such fees will not be covered by the organisers.

PACKING YOUR WORK

Please ensure your work is packaged adequately for travel between several different venues. It is difficult to advise on the best materials to use without understanding the nature of your work, but we usually advise acid free tissue paper to avoid creasing, plenty of bubble wrap to withstand transportation and strong cardboard for the outside packaging.

If your work is 3D or fragile in nature, we advise you to create a bespoke box or packaging that will protect it in transit (and that can be opened and re-packed numerous times). If there are any specific packing instructions, please include with your parcel and also send in advance by email.

Where possible, please avoid using packaging that will tear or get damaged when opening as we will try our best to re-use your packaging after each show. Where possible please use shrink wrap tape instead of brown sticky tape, which can ruin packaging.

We do our best to ensure your packaging is returned to you but please be aware this is not always possible, and we cannot accept any responsibility for lost or damaged packaging.

INSURANCE

If you are selected for FATA, you will be automatically covered by our insurance cover for pieces valued up to £1500. The work will be covered from the moment it arrives with us to the moment you receive it back.

Any work which exceeds this value and requires additional insurance can pay to cover their work at a cost to the maker of £10 for values between £1500 – £2000, £20 for values between £2001 - £2500 and so on in increments of £10.

It must be emphasized that, whilst every effort is made to ensure the safety of any entry, it has to be recognised that some risk is inevitable and must be accepted by all entrants.

Exhibited works will be returned at the organiser's expense no later than the end of January 2024.
